#	SUGGESTIONS FOR IMPROVEMENTS TO THESE EVENTS (PLEASE MAKE SURE TO NOTE WHICH EVENT YOUR COMMENT PERTAINS TO):	DATE
1	Move the events to weekdays so more people can attend.	12/6/2019 10:58 AM
2	The IETF hackathon, HotRFC and Sunday tutorial are awesome - I just could not fit them in this IETF.	12/5/2019 6:56 AM
3	to cold on the conference rooms. very bad we get ill the last 3 day's because of this.	12/4/2019 12:56 AM

6	Not sure, but I think some of these didn't show up right in IETFers app? Please check that?	12/2/2019 11:41 AM
7	I am very much uninterested in the presentation part of the Hackathon. I prefer to continue working. I didn't attend the Hackdemo time ever, as it always has a conflict for me.	11/24/2019 3:55 AM
8	Too many events took place at same time . Locations are hard to find . (Wrong choice of conference venue) .	11/23/2019 12:36 AM
9	Please teach newcomers to eat the microphone! Oh lawd, as someone who just managed to get the cojones to stand in front of the mic and present but was trained in how to scream into a mic like a starving cat, watching even seasoned regulars stand 3' away and face the wrong direction makes me sad.	11/22/2019 9:47 AM
10	I don't see much need for both "Hot RFCs" and the "PechaKucha". At the very least, the person who's so fanatical about these events should stop flooding the IETF mailing lists with so many emails about them.	11/22/2019 1:54 AM

1	Meetecho is excellent!	12/6/2019 12:27 PM
2	SE Asia is extremely difficult to travel to. It requires more than 24 hours of non-stop travel from North America and given the number of people traveling from this location represents a gigantic carbon footprint. Please consider Korea and Japan as much less painful go-to locations for the Asia component of 1-1-1.	12/6/2019 8:55 AM
3	excellent, as always	12/6/2019 8:49 AM
4	Meetechoi is fine	12/5/2019 6:56 AM
5	very useful	12/2/2019 4:48 PM
6	It worked better than I expected, and I had support throughout from the IETF team.	12/2/2019 1:18 PM
7	Worked very well for me. Switching between meeting sessions in the same time slot could still be made easier.	12/2/2019 1:10 PM
8	Worked well for the remote presenters/contributors	12/2/2019 11:00 AM
9	Present in person, used Meetecho as a WG chair. I did have a problem with bringing in a remote commenter, but I didn't observe problems in any of the other WG meetings I attended.	11/26/2019 3:51 PM
10	Internet connection is poor .	11/23/2019 12:36 AM
11	It worked great and let me cover 2 sessions at the same time.	11/22/2019 2:43 PM
12	Worked very well. There was a session which was too late (or early) for me and i watched it on youtube, very handy.	11/22/2019 6:53 AM
13	The IAB session rseme was supposed to have Meetecho and it did not.	11/22/2019 6:04 AM
14	Worked like a charm for me, however poor internet connection of other remote participants and other technical difficulties were a little bit annoying.	11/22/2019 5:38 AM
15	A bit more unstable than other meetings, but as extremely useful as always to follow the WG meetings	11/22/2019 4:22 AM
16	Worked great! They've got it down to a science.	11/22/2019 4:11 AM
17	Audio was not working at the beginning. UDP Port Scan killed my internet connection after the Q&A.	11/22/2019 2:57 AM
18	Excellent! Accessed over fast fixed broadband in the UK. Video and speaker audio were fine, many thanks :)	11/22/2019 2:29 AM
19	I was very happy with my experience for Meetecho. It worked far better than the last time that I had to use it because I could not go to the meeting. It even worked better than it did the last time I used it to sit in on two meetings at the same time. One of the things that I think should be clarified is if absent WG chairs should ask for presenter or participant status. I ended up with one of each and found the presenter status to be much easier because I could crash in if needed.	11/22/2019 1:45 AM
20	It was an absolute delight to attend IETF106. Rooms were very cold for me. Everything else was just super nice. Social Event, Sunday Reception was nice.	11/22/2019 1:40 AM
21	I really enjoyed IETF 106 and I hope Singapore will play host again to a future IETF.	11/22/2019 1:35 AM

1	Level of privacy loss is not liked.	12/6/2019 10:17 PM
2	Singapore is extremely far from anywhere in the world. I might attend future Singapore events remotely if possible (network access at IETF was fair - spoken friendly). Network access at the Singapore location was not good at all.	12/6/2019 12:39 PM
3	winter IETF in Singapore is a smart choice	12/6/2019 12:27 PM
4	We went back to Singapore just in 2 years. Prefer 4-5 years apart.	12/6/2019 10:51 AM
5	Accessible with direct (though long) flight. Venue easily accessible from airport by public transport. Plenty of food options. Pleasant place to be overall.	12/6/2019 9:57 AM
6	Expensive	12/6/2019 9:09 AM
7	See previous comment about the travel requirements for this location.	12/6/2019 8:55 AM
8	City is nice. 30 hours of travel to get there is not fun.	12/5/2019 6:57 AM
9	to cold conference rooms	12/4/2019 12:58 AM
10	Long plane ride from the US, but otherwise excellent location with good hotel options and public transportation. Laundromats, restaurants, and other facilities are easily accessible.	12/3/2019 7:40 AM
11	Travel is too long from NA	12/3/2019 7:28 AM
12	The temperature within the convention center was very problematic	12/3/2019 5:45 AM
13	The meetings room have been too cold.	12/3/2019 2:01 AM
14	Great, interesting, safe place with good connections, easy immigration (much better than the US) and lots of pleasant activities outside of the meeting (food, museums, nature, the amazing Gardens By The Bay).	12/3/2019 12:40 AM
15	It was too hot with high humidity outside.	12/2/2019 10:06 PM
16	very convinient to participate different meeting and meet person	12/2/2019 4:49 PM
17	I realize that the political situation of Singapore is a bit vexing, but as far as ease of access of an Asian location goes it's great (way better than Bangkok) and the city itself is very modern and visitor-friendly, and ridiculously photogenic at night.	12/2/2019 3:45 PM
18	Singapore is too expensive and too far. Hope we don't go there again.	12/2/2019 2:01 PM
19	It was pretty far for me.	12/2/2019 11:15 AM
20	The hotel complex is a little confusing, but it was good not to have to wait for elevators. The registration desk worked reasonably well as a focal point, but people then had to shop around to find coffee and food.I	12/2/2019 11:03 AM
21	Who keeps picking hot and humid cities? No thanks!	12/2/2019 11:00 AM
22	It's a loooong way down to the equator...	11/26/2019 4:54 PM
23	The convention center as a venue and the city of Singapore are a good location for a business traveler-- the convention center space is good for our meetings, there's plenty of options for food and social interaction, it's safe and not exceptionally expensive. The only real problem is that it's a very long trip and 13-16 hours of time change for North Americans.	11/26/2019 3:56 PM
24	expensive	11/26/2019 12:35 AM
25	Clean, safe, good vegetarian food.	11/25/2019 1:03 PM
26	Venue is excellent, even if travel time is dreadful.	11/25/2019 8:27 AM
27	Easy and cheap food close by. Great climate for winter (except in the meeting rooms)	11/25/2019 2:35 AM
28	Technically excellent, but a bit expensive.	11/25/2019 1:27 AM
29	the network in the hotel is sometimes not reliable	11/24/2019 5:26 PM

IETF 106 Meeting Survey

30	The city is fairly expensive relative to other IETF locations. The location is about as far as physically possible from my location - why do we have to keep going back?	11/24/2019 4:38 PM
31	Better than Bangkok.	11/24/2019 3:56 AM
32	Good Asia hub from a travel point of view (from Europe)	11/24/2019 12:46 AM
33	Meeting rooms were crazy cold. Food at breaks was very good. I liked that coffee, tea, and water was available almost all the time.	11/23/2019 4:17 PM
34	I think Singapore could rate higher if its laws were not so constrained regarding various topics (including LGBT).	11/23/2019 7:54 AM
35	It's probably one of the best options in the geographic region, but I don't really like Singapore. I had a hard time finding my way (e.g., from the street to the meeting rooms, to the restaurants, back to the meeting rooms...). Perhaps this is because it's a mall and it's designed to be confusing and distracting, so people go to the shops and buy more. But I would really prefer an environment with less distractions. Also, they don't understand the difference between vegetarian and vegan food. Not being able to identify what food I can eat unnecessarily increases my stress level.	11/23/2019 6:26 AM
36	I prefer Bangkok over Singapor, because it's more diverse. But that's a personal preference :)	11/23/2019 5:24 AM
37	Great for travel time, not so great for climate or cost of living (hotels, food, etc)	11/23/2019 2:22 AM
38	Terrible floor plan layout	11/23/2019 12:37 AM
39	Quality facility, great access from a travel perspective, great access locally between meeting rooms, great environment with lots of options outside the facility; I agree it is a bit more expensive than average but I think the benefits here outweigh that.	11/22/2019 5:14 PM
40	A little far away from Europe and quite expensive (hotels and airfare)	11/22/2019 4:42 PM
41	Too much air conditioning most of the time, including in the Swissotel bedroom	11/22/2019 4:24 PM
42	Easy to get around, lots of food, safe, friendly.	11/22/2019 2:44 PM
43	The travel was a bit gnarly, but mostly I'm concerned about surveillance and authoritarianism.	11/22/2019 2:35 PM
44	The facility and meeting space was great. I am not a big fan of Singapore as a city in which to spend time. I much preferred Seoul, Taiwan, Yokohama.	11/22/2019 9:50 AM
45	Only issue is that Singapore is an expensive city	11/22/2019 8:13 AM
46	it's a LONG way away. :)	11/22/2019 7:13 AM
47	Very expensive hotels; huge temperature difference between outside and the freezing rooms. Very nice food. Very easy to reach.	11/22/2019 6:41 AM
48	Nice city but ungodly hot and humid. Having maps and better guides for how to get around would be handy.	11/22/2019 5:03 AM
49	Singapore is a long trip for me(much longer than Tokyo or even Seoul), and also has somewhat restrictive laws that I don't appreciate. New Zealand or Australia would be about as far and much less restrictive. Jakarta might be more interesting and less authoritarian.	11/22/2019 3:16 AM
50	Singapore is more expensive than other locations (e.g., Bangkok) and the venue is not as compact. The service is excellent.	11/22/2019 3:10 AM
51	The climate is awful. But Singapore is easy to get to and the airport is great - pleasant and efficient border goons.	11/22/2019 2:44 AM
52	The city is great, but far away from where I live. It's good to meet close to the Asians sometimes though.	11/22/2019 1:56 AM
53	Near to me. Food/drinks outside were costly.	11/22/2019 1:41 AM

#	COMMENTS:	DATE
1	Didn't make a difference.	12/3/2019 7:33 AM
2	Nobody talked more than the allotted time, so the timers didn't seem to serve a purpose at this meeting	12/3/2019 5:47 AM
3	It's just normal to have timers in big meetings. It prevents verbose people from rambling on forever.	12/3/2019 12:42 AM
4	Honestly I didn't really notice it much; there was only one time where the timer ran out, right? And it was near the end of the speaker making his (Ben Kaduk?) comments, right? Whether that subconsciously influenced how long people took I can't say.	12/2/2019 3:47 PM
5	Less statements than usual. Feasibility of brief statements depends to a large extent on the specific topic. Positive is the need to keep statements concise	12/2/2019 11:58 AM
6	Planned times didn't necessarily reflect feedback and interest. Maybe do virtual queueing with something like MeetEcho IN ADVANCE to do planning for anticipated popularity and queue length estimates (and timers)	12/2/2019 11:44 AM
7	Please stop doing this. The purpose of the plenary is is for the IESG to listen to the community. Only the IESG needs a timer.	12/2/2019 11:34 AM
8	I think this could have been helpful in the TSVWG sessions. Earlier discussions ran very long, which severely reduced the time I had to present a planned talk.	12/2/2019 11:30 AM
9	Excessively long comments didn't seem to be a big problem in this plenary-- might matter more with a more controversial topic or two.	11/26/2019 4:11 PM
10	At least the plenary finished ahead of time, this is rare	11/25/2019 2:37 AM
11	Not much needed in '_this times_' plenary	11/25/2019 1:00 AM
12	Didn't experience them	11/23/2019 8:10 AM
13	I really liked the timer. There was no real controversial discussion this time, but I think the time will really help in case there is one.	11/23/2019 6:29 AM
14	Unnecessary tension	11/23/2019 12:39 AM
15	The timer is kind of obnoxious. Chair needs to moderate discussion by cutting people off and asking them to get to the point of their question/answer if they are bloviating. Some questions/answers may merit more than 2 minutes, some may not.	11/22/2019 7:13 PM
16	2min might not be good - 3 min ? but effective to compact the discussion	11/22/2019 5:19 PM
17	It would have been more revealing, I think, if something contentious were being discussed.	11/22/2019 2:36 PM
18	Whatever else you did to try and turn around the Plenary from the "whinge-a-thon" it used to be was far more effective, however I wonder if some of the valid moans will now not be heard...	11/22/2019 9:47 AM
19	The timers never did expire and as such I am unable to answer this question.	11/22/2019 8:16 AM
20	I had to leave at t he beginning of the open mic.	11/22/2019 7:20 AM
21	It was fun to watch them. The plenary this year, as all who attended know (so I'm not saying anything new here) was remarkably short. I wonder why?	11/22/2019 7:15 AM
22	The plenary was not really exciting nor very interesting this time.	11/22/2019 5:01 AM
23	It was hard to tell because there weren't enough questions to evaluate it.	11/22/2019 4:17 AM
24	Not enough data to have an opinion, but it didn't seem all that useful.	11/22/2019 3:23 AM
25	Keep experimenting	11/22/2019 1:46 AM
26	I need video of warrens face when he heard the ding	11/22/2019 1:29 AM

1	A small number of people monopolizing the mic.	12/6/2019 11:51 AM
2	Need to discuss and clear-out issues raised nay drafts seeking to compete with WG work items and proceed to WGLC. This blocked new work from being discussed.	12/3/2019 6:42 AM
3	Honestly abcd is a bit all over the place, and though I was a co-chair we didn't have it sufficiently nailed down following the recommendation of what makes a good BoF in part because there was no dedicated proponent for the group. I guess this is covered by "The Chairs didn't allocate/manage the time appropriately" if you want to mark it for that response, but it was sufficiently outside usual wg flow that it seemed worth special mention.	12/2/2019 3:49 PM
4	WG chairs are now very frugal in requesting time; it is however hard to predict how long items will need and therefore some buffer is needed. A couple of meetings indeed did not need all their buffer.	12/2/2019 11:11 AM

1	Though we did not get to present our work, much other work was accomplished that may allow more time for us in the future	12/6/2019 10:22 PM
2	With a time difference of approx. 13 hours the jetlag did get to me this time more than normal. Also the way this conference center is structured did not help very much in running into peers. This are often very productive ad hock meetings which didn't happen that much this year.	12/6/2019 12:46 PM
3	Due to a schedule conflict, I could only attend Saturday through Wednesday	12/6/2019 10:09 AM
4	Air condition caused a cold on the first day, which led to notably reduced productivity during the rest of the week.	12/2/2019 1:16 PM
5	Although not much got done in the formal sessions I attended, I did come away with some key insights to use in the coming months.	12/2/2019 11:33 AM
6	Fewer attendees meant that some items went more smoothly, but also that there will be more surprises later. Apart from that, the venue is near perfect for getting work done.	12/2/2019 11:12 AM
7	It's a little difficult to summarize across a large number of meetings, but this venue and schedule seemed to work significantly better than average.	11/26/2019 4:20 PM
8	NomCom member, so a very intense meeting this time.	11/25/2019 3:42 PM
9	There were less "exciting" new topics.	11/23/2019 5:31 AM
10	Part of this was the fact that I'm now half a dozen meetings in and have worked out the lay of the land, the cops from the jokers, and also how to get invited to Beer BoF.	11/22/2019 9:47 AM
11	More about meta-ietf discussions then before. each time I attend, I become more a part of the leadership community.	11/22/2019 7:17 AM
12	My third IETF meeting in a long long time.	11/22/2019 1:39 AM

Q22 What other information would have been helpful to you in preparing for IETF 106?

Answered: 9 Skipped: 192

#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	I had previously (before IETF 106) attended the newcomers pre-meeting sessions. They are very useful to get a general idea about IETF.	12/2/2019 1:20 PM
2	An arrivals guide, including comprehensive public transport information, would have been useful in both this IETF meeting and the previous one. Small details such as where and how to obtain a bus pass, a detailed map and timetable of the public transport network, and a local data SIM are crucial for those opting to stay elsewhere than the venue (particularly for budget reasons); it took my group several days to nail down an efficient bus route in both directions. For example, Singapore's official public transport website doesn't include a general bus map, but requires you to know the number of each bus to obtain a map of its route, which is useless when what you want to know is which bus lines pass closest to two points. Even the information at bus stops doesn't give much clue as to what direction each bus goes in, unless you already know the city well and can relate street names to each other. We also found relying on Google Maps to be unreliable, especially when the venue's network disappeared for one evening, and found ourselves wishing for paper maps and a compass. A local expert should be able to offer guidance on overcoming these obstacles. Larger details such as immigration information and check-in times on departure are also generally applicable to many attendees, and having a direct link to the relevant official information can be very helpful to less-seasoned business travellers who don't often visit a tropical Far Eastern locale.	12/2/2019 11:50 AM
3	I'm not sure anything could have prepared me for it haha. I thought it was sufficient to just sit there and take it in to see how it all worked.	12/2/2019 11:20 AM
4	more discussion time like quick connection would be useful for the new attendees. I just feel the total duration of quick connection is not enough for me. and I didn't know that the pre meeting webinar is exactly same with the newcomer tutorial. If I know, I will pass one of them to save time.	11/24/2019 6:46 PM
5	I was not assigned to any guide despite registration.	11/23/2019 12:43 AM
6	I want to know how I can get Singapore work done by completing all the processes	11/22/2019 3:49 AM

#	PLEASE PROVIDE ANY DETAILS ABOUT YOUR EXPERIENCE IN OBTAINING A VISA.	DATE
1	Singapore visa is not too complex, comparing with many others	12/6/2019 12:30 PM
2	The primary difficulty I encountered was in using the local letter of invitation. The Singapore embassy in Washington DC insisted on getting their NRIC number, but the person who issued the local letter did not respond for a whole week until I pinged them a second time, which held up the visa processing. (The other difficulty was that Gmail kept marking emails from the embassy as spam, but that is out-of-scope here)	12/3/2019 7:48 AM
3	The hosting company doesn't provide adequate materials that the Chinese embassy required - I used another company's invitation letter to get the visa instead of what IETF offered.	11/22/2019 7:11 AM
4	I applied for visa from foreign country, been on a work visa already.	11/22/2019 1:46 AM

1	IDK, but you have some questions that are forcing answers that do not reflect my actual feelings. Ie, forcing me to rank something from 1 to 4 when none of them are my desires is simply a bad survey	12/6/2019 10:23 PM
2	How was the Network quality?	12/6/2019 12:47 PM
3	The first priority for scheduling clashes is to avoid having two groups of the same area at the same time. Do you think this is the best strategy for scheduling?	12/6/2019 11:14 AM
4	Don't know	12/6/2019 10:13 AM
5	Allow for not ranking some of the unstructured time choices. I like the 1 hour until 10am. I do not like the other choices and don't want to indicate any support for them.	12/6/2019 9:02 AM

13	how to make IETF more relevant to industry? How to accelerate RFC publication? should IESG focus more on future work than nick picking the drafts waiting to be published which were written many years ago?	12/2/2019 2:10 PM
14	Make sure that "keep unstructured meeting time as is" would be covered.	12/2/2019 1:18 PM
15	WG internal conflicts AD recusals (even when not responsible AD) from WG participation WG "supervision" via neutral observers, for WGs known to have internal "tension", reporting back to IESG, IAB	12/2/2019 11:48 AM
16	It seems to me, as a newcomer, that there's an unspoken power structure in the IETF, whereby certain people are given more weight and credence than others simply because they talk more or have been around longer. I got the sense that some voices were just ignored because they didn't come from one of these people. So asking something like "If you participated in a working group, did you feel that your concerns or ideas were heard and considered?" might be a good idea.	12/2/2019 11:26 AM
17	Get rid of the stereotypes why meetings might not be productive, and try to elicit the real reasons (if any!).	12/2/2019 11:18 AM
18	Perhaps some more about how and why people decide to attend in person vs. remotely, do they expect to attend in person in future as much as they have in the past, what influences that set of decisions.	11/26/2019 6:36 PM

2	No more Prague please!	12/6/2019 10:58 AM
3	Avoid countries with military regimes, easily offended royals, unclear visa procedures (e.g. Thailand)	12/6/2019 10:13 AM
4	better labelling of ingredients of the food (breaks), more respect for dietary restrictions (back to cookies+vegetables!!). I loved the nuts!	12/6/2019 10:10 AM
5	Think of full and wide invitation of African Continent. Since Africa now is moving faster like others ,we need more participants form that continent	12/6/2019 10:08 AM
6	Please consider the cost to the participants and to the planet of flying 80% (or whatever it is) to SE Asia every year. I'm not suggesting that we eliminate Asia in the equation, but does it need to be 1-1-1? The number of participants (or even possible new participants) does not seem to justify this. Even if 1-1-1 is kept, please consider the cost to the participants and the planet to flying a huge number of people to SE Asia instead of Japan or Korea which require much less travel time, cost and carbon footprint. SE Asia is not a healthy or cost effective choice for IETF.	12/6/2019 9:02 AM
7	IETF Secretariat is great. The traditional excellent meeting network went from very good to "so-so". The datatracker is broken more than it is up lately.	12/5/2019 7:01 AM
8	The pricing is quite high for participants who are self sponsored and do not have funding from the organisation. It will help if there is a differential pricing. Also the pricing for one day $375 is also high , can reduce it to allow more participation.	12/4/2019 10:20 PM
9	More substantive vegan dietary options.	12/3/2019 1:41 PM
10	Don't schedule meetings running into the evenings.	12/3/2019 11:52 AM
11	Accommodation cost is often a major factor in consuming the meeting budget that is provided to me.	12/3/2019 6:43 AM
12	A very minor thing: in the drinks break, there was ample supply of Sprite and normal Coke but most people were only interested in Diet Coke, which disappeared immediately. A different balance of carbonated drinks would be better.	12/3/2019 12:46 AM
13	Thanks for the amsl support, srsly, grate folks.	12/2/2019 6:39 PM
14	Is there any app or tools to find and dicuss with someone in the meeting instantly? Currently we use only the mail, and it is not very convinient.	12/2/2019 4:59 PM
15	each area should have a User based WG to discuss new trend and new work for IETF. Either IAB or IESG should put in more effort to bring the IETF work to the industry	12/2/2019 2:10 PM
16	It would be great if IETF introduced an "academic" fee to ease people from academia to attend the meetings.	12/2/2019 1:22 PM
17	Please pay more for coffee. Montreal had stuff you couldn't drink and the same applied to Singapore. I am pretty sure the venues can do better. Fix the freaking air condition problems. Pretty much no matter where we go (speaking for the past 20+ years), it is virtually always too cold in the meeting rooms. Looking at how other people dress and listening to what they say, this is not just an individual opinion.	12/2/2019 1:18 PM
18	I find myself less and less willing to participate in WG sessions due to audio/video recordings being permanently stored/uploaded to YouTube.	12/2/2019 12:12 PM
19	PLEASE consider enforcement of policies for the amount of room cooling/heating, in some rooms it was really, really cold. In the light of current climate discussions it is absolutely counter-productive to cool down meeting venues to 18-22 degrees. 25°C was an option, too, to save substantial energy. Distributing blankets is a welcome statement but the IETF should/must find solutions for the future.	12/2/2019 12:04 PM
20	Start the w.g. sessions at 9am. Starting at 10am wastes our time.	12/2/2019 11:35 AM
21	After 106 meetings, you kind of have it worked out; in particular the hackathons have been a recent boost to productivity. I must admit that by the middle of the week, I need the plenary time to catch up on sleep, don't get rid of that. Getting enough sleep is now the overriding concern...	12/2/2019 11:18 AM

IETF 106 Meeting Survey

(And not getting sick despite the ridiculously aggressive air conditioning, which I have managed now for two IETFs in a row — but I still see many others that do succumb to the indoor climate.)

22	start at 11, 10's too early	12/2/2019 11:03 AM
23	Hotels that smell of mold should be avoided. I felt horrible the entire time.	12/2/2019 11:02 AM
24	The air conditioning was cooling down too much. Attending IETF meetings in this condition is not healthy (I have got a bad cold and still not yet recovered)	11/27/2019 5:12 AM
25	As a WG chair I know why this is difficult, but agendas further in advance would allow some participants to plan their travel more efficiently.	11/26/2019 6:36 PM
26	For early bird registrations only, ask registrants which sessions they must attend (e.g. to justify the trip to their employers) and which sessions they'd like to attend (to support those with broader interests) and see if this information is useful input to a scheduling algorithm. If this only applies to early bird registrations that might encourage folks to signup earlier? IDK	11/26/2019 5:06 PM
27	At this meeting, the ietf-hotel network in my Fairmont room was significantly worse than usual. One of the primary motivations to stay at the official venue rather than a less-expensive hotel nearby is the quality of the network, so this was a disappointment.	11/25/2019 3:44 PM
28	The air conditioning temperature was out of control - I observe that this is a common occurrence at hot-weather IETFs and really should be dealt with more effectively in the future.	11/25/2019 1:10 PM
29	Not sure if the blankets provided were intended as a joke, but there weren't enough of them for the room temperature. Was not able to get a t-shirt that fit; the sizes ran very small, and no larger size was available.	11/25/2019 8:30 AM
30	Room VIP A was ice-cold. Some rooms were ice-cold at IETF105 as well. Some people caught a cold. Is there a way to request higher (or lower if applicable) room temperature without bothering the IETF secretariat?	11/25/2019 5:02 AM
31	Try to get AC under control, some meetings were downright freezing, which is a crime against climate under tropical zones.	11/25/2019 2:39 AM
32	as in many IETF meeting, the A/C was all over the place, most of the time too cold for my taste, several times just right. I did wear my woolly hat on occasions. I know this is a recurring and difficult issue, so I'm not complaining. Just providing a data point.	11/25/2019 1:32 AM
33	conference rooms should have about 20°C-22°C - especially when the outside temperature is much higher!	11/25/2019 1:03 AM
34	allow for optional recording and remote participants in side meetings	11/24/2019 10:27 PM
35	I know that we could not do anything the AC, the room temperature. So what about telling us in advance the room targeted temperature so that we could prepare the right clothes	11/24/2019 12:52 AM
36	Side meetings needed more resources. At a minimum they need a repository to upload presentations and minutes. It would be ideal if they could also be recorded and support remote participation. Individuals attempted to do on their own using Zoom, which really doesn't work well. Perhaps there should be two types of side meetings, ones with resources and ones without, if you don't want to provide resources for all. In any case, more resources are needed. Thanks for the time, though, the meetings are otherwise very valuable.	11/23/2019 8:16 AM
37	I realize that this is unfair to many US folks, but being a non-US citizen, the experience entering the US is scary, plus recent laws by the current US government add further obstacles to many IETF attendees. Therefore, I would prefer avoiding having IETF meetings in the US, unless the situation described improves. Again, I realize this is not fair to US-based IETF folks.	11/23/2019 8:01 AM
38	Thanks for providing vegan food at the social! Please make sure the hotel actually knows about the participants' dietary restrictions and honors them. There were no vegan options at the hotel (as usual, sadly) - they had "gluten-free" but not vegan. If it's possible to have a separate table for dietary restrictions, vegan food should be possible, too.	11/23/2019 6:33 AM

41	It is still hard to a newcomer get involved with the meeting. The current support activities helps, but do not permit te real engagement. 45	* Check the number of language badges you have at the end of the conference and throughout - this year you ran out of a few, i.e. Japanese. Also, for some bizarre reason every other badge says "I speak $endonym" and it just says "Japanese". Huh? "日本語 \n 話せませす" would be perfectly acceptable. * Friday luggage this time was... harder. A not-easy-to-find room which when I came back to was magically converted into a dining room with my sack of dirty clothes hidden away. Montreal did better - having some people organise the bags and monitor them was a relief.	11/22/2019 9:55 AM
46	Temperature in meeting rooms was very low on the first day. It may sound silly, but it's something that could have been planned for. Thank you for fixing it by Tuesday.	11/22/2019 8:31 AM
47	I am not sure whether it depends on you, but as I could not find non-black tea, I did not drink tea during the meetings. Not a big issue obviously, just something I really appreciate when available :)	11/22/2019 7:25 AM

54	cut Fridays out	11/22/2019 2:38 AM
55	Ask all questions to be spoken into a mic (which may mean a question from the floor being repeated)	11/22/2019 2:31 AM
56	Why was the social event held in a basement while we are in a tropical location and locked up in a hotel the rest of the week anyway? A beach would have been a nice idea!	11/22/2019 1:46 AM
57	Please do not make meeting rooms so cold (19°C). It does not make any sense.	11/22/2019 1:44 AM
58	Thanks for the tea/coffee breaks that were well stocked with snacks, continue with this trend.	11/22/2019 1:40 AM
59	Maybe having (at least) snacks at midday break and at the end of the day (ie meetings) would be nice	11/22/2019 1:33 AM
60	Can you please upload the IETF agenda earlier? We already know 90% of the meetings for IETF107 in Vancouver. Why not publishing agenda 2 months in advance so that we can prepare the flights accordingly? Thanks.	11/22/2019 1:27 AM
